In Re: Cathode Ray Tube (CRT) Antitrust Litigation

Expert Report of Vandy Howell, Ph.D.

Prepared for Hitachi, Ltd., Hitachi Displays, Ltd. (n/k/a Japan Display Inc.),
Hitachi Asia, Ltd., Hitachi America, Ltd., and Hitachi Electronic Devices (USA)

April 15, 2014

12. Third, because my analysis focuses on the period after the Hitachi Defendants' final closure of their CDT and CPT production lines by April 2002, I specifically analyzed the transaction-level data in order to determine the precise details of the CDT and CPT sales transactions for each Hitachi Defendant subsequent to plant closure. I examined the final sales transactions for each Hitachi Defendant, including the many descriptive variables in the datasets, such as the customers served, the date the purchase orders were placed, the date the products were shipped, the countries to which the products were shipped, and other variables indicating the type of transaction.<sup>9</sup>

13. I have also reviewed industry data and derived the Hitachi Defendants' share of worldwide CDT and CPT sales. For this calculation, I started with the quarterly sum of the Hitachi Defendants' CDT and CPT shipments. Next, I collected total worldwide annual CDT and CPT shipments reported by Fuji Chimera and estimated quarterly industry shipments.<sup>10</sup> I then calculated the Hitachi Defendants' share of worldwide industry sales in each quarter by dividing their quarterly shipments by the estimated quarterly industry sales. The results are presented in detailed graphs. See Exhibits 2C and 3C–D below.

14. Finally, after synthesizing the transaction-level data to analyze the Hitachi Defendants' exit from the CRT industry, I applied my expertise in industrial organization and the related academic literature to determine whether the Hitachi Defendants could have affected prices for CRTs after the closure of all CRT production lines by 2002 through the end of the class period.

IV. Summary of Opinions

15. All of the Hitachi Defendants exited the CDT and CPT industries (i.e., ceased both manufacturing and sales) by no later than March 2003. Shortly after the Hitachi Defendants publicly announced their exit from CDT and CPT manufacturing worldwide in 2001 and 2002, the Hitachi Defendants closed their only remaining CDT and CPT production lines and stopped

<sup>9</sup> For example, the TNO field in HDP-CRT00018516 indicates whether a transaction represents a return. For a description of the information captured in the TNO field, see letter from Morgan Lewis to Andrus Anderson, 9/14/2012, responses to Questions 16-20 on HDP-CRT00018516-T, "Electric Data" tab.

<sup>10</sup> See Flat Panel Display Applications: Trends and Forecasts, Fuji Chimera Research Institute, Annual Reports, 2000–2007. Quarterly industry sales are estimated as one fourth of total industry annual sales for the year in which the quarter occurred.

producing such tubes globally.<sup>11</sup> Very few sales were made after production ceased. These sales were related to servicing existing orders for a limited set of historically-large customers.

- Exit from the CDT Industry: HTL stopped manufacturing CDTs in December 2001, when it closed its final CDT production lines in Japan, Singapore and Malaysia. HAS, HAL, HED(US) and HDP never manufactured CDTs. HED(US)'s final CDT sale took place on August 28, 2000 and none of the Hitachi Defendants sold any CDTs to the United States after 2001. HAS's final CDT sale took place in June 2002, and the last revenue-earning CDT sale by HTL took place on October 24, 2002. After October 2002, none of the Hitachi Defendants recorded any revenue-earning CDT sales and all remaining CDT transactions were returns from customers and represented negative revenue.<sup>12</sup> See Section V.B.1 below.
- Exit from the CPT Industry: HTL stopped manufacturing CPTs in October 1998. HED(US) stopped manufacturing CPTs in April 2002. HAS, HAL and HDP never manufactured CPTs. HTL's final CPT sale took place in September 2002, and the final HED(US) CPT sales transaction was recorded on March 20, 2003. See Section V.B.2 below.

16. After exiting the CDT and CPT industries by March 2003, the Hitachi Defendants did not have the ability or incentive to affect prices for CDTs or CPTs and their economic incentives were no longer consistent with the objectives of the alleged conspiracy (i.e., to raise the market price of CRTs):

- The Hitachi Defendants did not participate in the CDT and CPT marketplaces after October 2002 and March 2003, respectively, either producing or selling. Because of this, they clearly could not impact prices for those products after that time. After March 2003, the Hitachi Defendants also had no ability to affect CRT prices by participating in the alleged cartel mechanisms, such as market share or customer allocation, because they had no production capacity, no inventory, and no sales.

<sup>11</sup> The words "manufacturing" and "production" are used interchangeably throughout the report and are equivalent.

<sup>12</sup> The term "revenue-earning" refers to positive revenue transactions, which represent sales to customers and excludes transactions representing returns, discounts or other deductions.

- The Hitachi Defendants lost the ability to impact prices well before this March 2003 date. A very small competitor with little production capacity can rarely influence prices in an industry. The extent to which it can impact prices depends chiefly on its production capacity. The Hitachi Defendants' production capacity was zero for both CDTs and CPTs by April 2002. From this point in time through the end of the class period in 2007, the Hitachi Defendants could not affect prices for CDTs or CPTs because they both had no CDT or CPT production capacity and only made a very small number of sales to the marketplace until March 2003, when they stopped selling these products. See Section VI.B below.
- By March 2003, after exiting the CDT and CPT industries, the Hitachi Defendants no longer had economic incentives consistent with those of the alleged cartel. The Hitachi Defendants made no CDT or CPT sales, had no inventory of CDTs or CPTs to sell, and had no CDT or CPT production capacity that would allow them to benefit from higher CDT and CPT prices. See Section VI.C below.

V. All of the Hitachi Defendants Exited the CDT and CPT Industries by March 2003

17. In this section, using the Hitachi Defendants' CDT and CPT sales data produced in this litigation, I analyze the amount and nature of the Hitachi Defendants' CDT and CPT sales in the years surrounding their CDT and CPT production line closures.<sup>13</sup> First, I describe the Hitachi Defendants' involvement in CDT and CPT production and sales. Second, I present the progression of the Hitachi Defendants' CDT and CPT sales through their last sale and exit from each of these industries.

18. My analysis of the data shows that all of the Hitachi Defendants were entirely out of the CDT and CPT industries by March 20, 2003. The Hitachi Defendants publicly announced their exit from the CDT industry in July 2001 and from the CPT industry in February 2002, citing weak demand for CDTs and CPTs and difficulties in achieving cost savings and profitability.<sup>14</sup>

<sup>13</sup> Throughout the report, sales will refer to gross sales and gross units unless otherwise specified. Products classified in the data as "MM CRT"s are folded into CDTs.

<sup>14</sup> "The sluggishness of the desktop PC market has reduced demand for CRTs for PC monitors, leading to a sharp fall in prices." See Hitachi Press Release, "Hitachi to Withdraw from CRTs for PC Monitors – Company Will

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief. This declaration was executed on the 15 day of April 2014, at San Francisco, California.

1       ceased to exist in any form; division,
2       corporate or otherwise?

3             A.       That name is not in current use.

4             Q.       Did the division that it was get a
5       new name?

6             A.       No.

7             Q.       Okay. So whatever that division
8       did or operated or controlled may have been
9       moved over to other parts of Panasonic --

10            A.       That's correct.

11            Q.       -- the large family?

12            A.       That is correct.

13            Q.       But it did not continue as a
14       self-sustaining unit?

15            A.       That is true.

16            Q.       Okay. Then let's go to 1(D) which 17       is the Victor Company of Japan, Limited (JVC).
18       And I'm going to use JVC for my questions to 19       stand for Victor Company of Japan, Limited. Is 20       that okay, sir?

21            A.       Yes.

22            Q.       Has the ownership of that entity
23       changed between 1995 and the present?

24            A.       Yes.

25            Q.       Okay. So then let's go back to 1 1995 and take it by segments. In 1995 what was

2 the ownership of Victor Company of Japan or 3 JVC?

4 A. I can only speak to Panasonic's
5 ownership and that Panasonic held A -- I'm 6 sorry, MEI, which is the Japanese parent of 7 MECA, held a 52.4 percent interest in JVC until 8 August 2007.

9 Q. Okay. Do you know of any of the 10 other major shareholders of JVC up until August
11 of 2007?

12 A. I do not.

13 Q. Okay. What happens in August of 14 2007?

15 A. Well, August 2007 into September
16 2008, Panasonic Corporation, now the name of 17 what was formerly called MEI, held a 36.8
18 percent interest in JVC.

19 Q. That's between August 2007 and
20 September 2008?

21 A. That's correct.

22 Q. Okay. And then what happens in
23 September of 2008?

24 A. As of March 31st, 2008, MEI held a

1 CRT, which Zenith used to buy from Toshiba.

2 Q And do you recall buying CRTs from Toshiba
3 in 1999?

4 A In 1999 I got out of Zenith, so I cannot
5 tell. But before, we bought from. 10:22:13

6 Q When did you leave Zenith in 1999?

7 A End of '98 I left.

8 Q And where did you go?

9 A LG -- back to LG Electronics. At that time
10 I was transferred to the appliance OEM division 10:22:28
11 located in Chicago area.

12 Q Who informed you of your transfer out of 13 Zenith?

14 A Michael Ahn notified me that I'm being
15 transferred out of Zenith. 10:22:49

16 Q And would that have come from above him at 17 LG, from Mr. Cho or from Mr. Koo?

18 A Yeah.

19 MR. ESTRADA: Objection; calls for
20 speculation. 10:23:00

21 THE WITNESS: Executive level movement is
22 always reported and approved by CEO.

23 BY MR. RANDALL:

24 Q And did you know whether Mr. Koo approved
25 that transfer for you in 1998, 1999? 10:23:10

1 Q Could LG headquarters tell you what price
2 to set for a Zenith CRT-based television?

3 A They -- they cannot, because -- I have to 4 be clear. We -- we might be a little bit confused.

5 When I was doing the sales-related job in 14:02:59
6 2001, 2000, Zenith stopped manufacturing TV sales --
7 TV product and Zenith outsourced its TV product.

8 So I have to make -- if I have to sell TV
9 at a certain price, and if it -- the loss is too
10 big, then I would rather reduce the volume or 14:03:33
11 renegotiate with the outsourcing factory to cut the 12 cost down.

13 If they cannot cut the cost down, then I
14 would probably reduce the volume to reduce the limit
15 of the loss to -- to make my business plan P&L, not 14:03:51
16 target.

17 Q Let me ask you about that, because you
18 mentioned when you went back to Zenith in 2000 --

19 A Uh-hmm.

20 Q -- Zenith was no longer making its own 14:04:03
21 tubes; is that right?

22 A Right.

23 Q So at that point Zenith was outsourcing the 24 making of televisions, CRT-based televisions --

25 A Uh-hmm. 14:04:14

1 Q -- and the tubes that would go into those
2 CRT-based televisions; is that right?

3 A Uh-hmm.

4 Q Before that point in time Zenith was making
5 its own tubes -- 14:04:23

6 A Yes.

7 Q -- is that right?

8 And I think you testified that there was a
9 certain percentage of large size tubes, 32-inch,
10 36-inch, that were made by Toshiba. 14:04:34

11 A Yes, I recall that.

12 Q Was that a major percentage of the 13 CRT-based televisions sold by Zenith?

14 A No. As you have seen in the exhibit in the 15 past, it was like -- target quantity was like a 14:04:45
16 hundred thousand units of 32-inch and 40,000 units
17 in the 36-inch.

18 Generally the target quantity is the
19 optimistic number, right? So the actual production
20 per year must have been smaller than that. And that 14:05:06
21 number is a very small portion of Zenith's total
22 business volume. Very small portion.

23 Q When you say "very small portion," what
24 percentage would you put as an estimate?

25 A Estimate, less than ten percent, I should 14:05:20

1 say.

2 Q Now, after the point when you came back in
3 2000, Zenith was no longer making its own tubes and 4 they were outsourcing that production.

5 A Uh-hmm. 14:05:37

6 Q Where, geographically speaking, did they
7 outsource their production?

8 A In North America, either -- mostly in 9 Mexico border area, U.S./Mexico border area.

10 Q Why was it important that the outsourcing 14:05:53
11 happen in North America?

12 A The biggest reason was the NAFTA tariff.
13 NAFTA imposed import duty of five percent for every 14 TV set we are importing out of North Ameri -- North
15 American territory. 14:06:16

16 And, as I told you, in this
17 highly-competitive TV market where operating budget
18 is so thin, five percent gap is a very big 19 disadvantage. And also TV price is always eroding.
20 But if you buy from offshore, from Far East, Asia, 14:06:36
21 you have longer lead time, meaning you have a higher
22 risk of price erosion longer than other people and 23 also shipping cost addition.

24 So all the economy reasons dictate --
25 almost dictate you buy from North American facility. 14:06:53
